A Famous Mosque
The first sensation of a traveler on entering the Mosque of Cordova, Spain, so famous throughout the world, is of wonder and bewilderment; and more than one visit is required before he can distinguish the original structure or understand the changes that have been made in it. I will give a brief description of the mosque as it was built in 786 and the following years. It was 642 feet long by 462 wide, the walls battlemented and flanked with towers, the roof flat, the beams apparent and richly gilt. It was divided into 19 aisles running the longer way by pillars bearing simple, lofty arches.
The aisles were crossed by 29 others, rather more narrow and bearing double arches, like two bows, one above another. The whole number of pillars was 1,200. It had 19 handsome and varied portals and the interior of the walls were worked like lace with marble and stucco. On one side was the holy of holies, the Mihrab, a little chapel with floor and roof of marble, and a little way from it was another chapel, called the seat of the Khalif, with a floor of silver. This was the whole construction of the old mosque. Upon the two chapels and the space between them were lavished all the riches of wealth and genius.
They remained intact and are indescribably beautiful, like fairy palaces, with mosaics, carvings, interlacing arches and inscriptions in solid gold. The mosaic work is superior to any in the world and resembles illustrations of jewels. The Mihrab was lighted by a golden lamp of 1,454 high and a candle weighing 60 pounds, while all the roof of the rest of the mosque was hung with silver and brass lamps, 10,805 lights in all. The Mihrab contained a pulpit or reading desk inclosing the Koran of ivory and precious stones, worth $500,000, which was stolen not many years ago. We can hardly fancy anything more splendid than this mosque must have been when lighted up. Under Charles V. in 1561 the alterations were begun. The roof was taken down and the aisles vaulted over.
At the end of each aisle a hideous chapel to some saint was inclosed; the doors were built up, with the exception of two or three, and a church was erected in the middle of the forest of pillars, a most incongruous imperfection, at which the Emperor, when he saw what had been done, was very angry. "You have spoiled," said he, "what can never be replaced." Such, indeed, was the fact. But enough is left for wonder and for beauty; and if you turn your back to the church and gaze through one of the interlacing aisles that remain, the changing effects of perspective are magical. The pillars, of which 850 still stand, are of porphyry, jasper and marble, sent from India, Africa and the East; they have no bases, and the capitals, afterwards added, are simple and rather clumsy.
The double arches which rest on them are formed of alternating layers of red brick and white stone, which fortunately have not been whitewashed over, and supply the single piece of color left of the gorgeous hues of old. The mosque, wonderful and most valuable as it is, is indeed but a ghost of its former self. The Court of Oranges, which flanks the northern side of the building, is very picturesque, surrounded by arcades and filled with orange and palm trees, among which are three Moorish fountains. On one side of the court stood formerly the exquisite minaret of the mosque, which was blown down by a hurricane and has been replaced by an insignificant tower. —San Francisco Chronicle.

FOR THE GIRL WHO FRECKLES—The girl who freckles, says the New York Star, is said to be lovable, therefore any girl who freckles should not fret about it. She always does, however, and for this reason—to prevent freckles and the freckling—Dr. Anna Kingsford once devoted a long article to the subject. I am going to make an extract or two from it, though the reason is past a little talk of this sort is at least appropriate. To prevent summer freckles—that is, freckles caused by heat—when going out in the heat of the day, rub a little cold cream on the face and wear a veil—unless you prefer the freckles; and between the latter and its remedy I believe I would prefer the freckles. Cold cream, however, an innocent and beneficial ointment, softening and whitening the skin far better than either glycerine or vaseline. It should be composed of pure white wax, sperm oil of the best quality, almond oil and rose water, or, better still, cucumber juice. A little oxide of zinc sometimes added to give consistency to the mixture. This makes a perfectly harmless cosmetic, which can be applied to the face to remove freckles.

Remarkable Rescue.
Mrs. Michael Cartain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hypocrite of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from the first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at E. S. Leadbeater & Bro.'s drug store (wholesale agents). Large bottles 50c and $1.

For Over Fifty Years.
AN OLD AND WELL-TRIED REMEDY—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over FIFTY YEARS BY MILLIONS OF MOTHERS for their CHILDREN WHILE TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS ALL PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC and is the best remedy for DIARRHEA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

MEDICINAL.

Wake Up.

If you wake up in the morning with a bitter or bad taste in your mouth, languor, dull headache, despondency, constipation, take Simmons' Liver Regulator. It corrects the bilious stomach, sweetens the breath and cleanses the furred tongue. Children as well as adults sometimes eat something that does not digest well, producing Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Restlessness, or Sleeplessness—a good dose of Regulator will give relief. So perfectly harmless is this remedy that it can be taken by the youngest infant or the most delicate person without injury, no matter what the condition of the system may be. It can do no harm if it does no good, but its reputation for 40 years proves it never fails in doing good.
